

CHARLIE SOO IS AGAIN IN WARM WATER

Man Who Has Just Gotten Out of Leavenworth Again in Hands of Federal Authorities Here.

Two Chinese were ordered deported this morning, after a hearing before United States Commissioner H. R. Whiting at his office in Old Albuquerque. One of them was Charlie Soo, who was recently released from the federal prison at Leavenworth. The other was Wong Yin, who has not smiled in eight months.

Soo was tried at El Paso about a year ago on the charge of smuggling Chinese into this country. He received a sentence of 15 months in the federal prison and with that time he got off for good conduct, was released about three months ago. He was brought back here to await a hearing, as to whether he should be sent to China or back to Mexico, of which republic he claimed to be a citizen. His papers arrived the other day and this morning, when given a hearing, he was ordered sent back to Juarez. Soo says he is innocent of the charge on which he was convicted, and that he will go back to Juarez and go into business. It is said that he may again engage in the smuggling game. Soo is one of the crowd down at Juarez and El Paso who successfully smuggled many Chinese into this country three and four years ago or at least this is what authorities say.

Most of the members of this aggregation who were caught were convicted and sentenced several years ago. Soo and three others were not caught for some time afterward.

Has Not Smiled for Eight Months.

Although Soo and the other Chinese present in court were smiling and cheerful, Wong Yin, ordered deported to China, smiled the second time in eight months when he shook the hand of Commissioner Whiting, and looked the gratitude he could not express in words.

Yin was captured at Carlsbad several weeks ago, and says that while in jail there, two negroes hung him from the ceiling and kept him there five minutes, demanding money. He gave them three dollars, all he had, and they let him down. He says they told him they would keep him there 45 minutes if he did not give them money.

Through an interpreter, Yin asked why they had done this. He protested that he had killed no one, and did not know why he was in the house. It was only with some difficulty that he was made to realize that he was not to be hung when he was brought to Albuquerque for a hearing. When he understood that Commissioner Whiting had ordered him deported to China, where he said he was anxious to go, he was very grateful and the nervous shock of a snake flickered around his Oriental mouth for an instant as he shook hands with him after the hearing.

The interpreter said that Yin had "a wheel in his hand." Anyway, he looked mighty unhappy while in court.

The only other time he has smiled since his adventure in the Carlsbad jail, which gave him a horrible fright, and in said to have caused the "wheel in his hand," was when the interpreter who met him at the station here told him he was not to be hung.

Yin claimed to have a certificate of legal residence in the United States, but said it was in Honolulu, where he had lived 14 years. He came into this country through El Paso, having landed at a west coast port. He claimed to have spent a year in El Paso and Carlsbad before his arrest.

There are two other Chinese boys in jail here awaiting hearings.

BLIND WOMAN HAS PRINTER ARRESTED

K. H. Baker Has Session With Police Following Attempt to Bribe Old Lady to Refrain from Singing.

Because he annoyed a blind woman who plays her vocations as a soloist between First and Second streets on Central avenue, singing old time songs for passersby in return for nickels and dimes thrown into a tin cup, K. H. Baker, printer by trade, was gathered in by the police yesterday evening.

In police court today Baker explained to the court that he rooms in a hotel near where the blind woman has her stand. In attempting to gather a few dozen winks of sleep yesterday, he was not permitted to do so because of the strains of "My Old Kentucky Home," sent into the atmosphere by the blind woman. Driven to desperation, Baker said, by the monotony of the song, he got on his knees; went down stairs from the hotel and across the street to the blind woman. Arriving there, according to Baker, he essayed to bribe her to refrain from singing long enough to permit him to get to sleep.

The blind woman sent in a riot call for the police and had Baker arrested, continuing to sing while the bluecoats were dragging the unfortunate type artist to jail.

The court today reserved decision in considering Baker's case.

W. H. Andrews is Sued on Note

Claim for $2,000 Alleged to Be Due a Pennsylvania Savings Bank Entered in District Court Today.

Suit was filed today in the office of the district court, by A. B. McMillen, attorney for the Lincolnville Savings bank, a Pennsylvania institution, against W. H. Andrews, for $2,000, alleged to be due on note. A copy of the note is attached to the complaint. It was made April 16, 1910, and was to run for nine months. The plaintiff alleges that nothing has been paid on the principal, and that no interest has been paid since January 16, 1911.

District Attorney George S. Klock, acting as attorney for the purpose of the motion, today filed a motion in the matter of the petition of James P. Brown, to be appointed administrator of the estate of James Engelhart, asking that petition be denied, because the district court had no right to appoint an administrator, and because the remedy sought by Brown was not his proper remedy, and on other grounds.

Soon after Engelhart was killed last October, petition was filed by Brown to be appointed administrator, and denied, because he was a creditor of the estate. Judge Edmonson, Mrs. Probate judge, appointed Frank McKee administrator, on petition of Mark Engelhart, a relative who lives in Missouri. Brown appealed to the district court, and the motion today is the outcome of the appeal.

Final judgment was entered in the case of Ernest Pinney, Lloyd Hunsaker, trustee, et al., against E. N. Wilson, Flora I. Wilson, and D. H. Carns, for $1,555.33. Property covered by a trust deed to secure loans totaling almost the amount named, or all of it if interest and fees be included, was ordered sold, and M. J. McGuinness was appointed special master to make the sale. The judgment went by default.

A marriage license was issued today to Oracio Jaramillo of Sedillo, N. M., and Nasaria Lopez, of San Antonio, N. M.

BARBER SHOP OWNERS WANT SUNDAY CLOSING

The preliminary hearing for P. Nicolaci, proprietor of a Central avenue barber shop, accused of keeping his shop open on Sunday in violation of the Sunday closing law, has been postponed until Friday. Nicolaci was served with a warrant charging Sunday violation following a complaint made by a fellow barber. It is said that the owners of barber shops to assist with the barbers' union will endeavor to keep barber shops closed on Sunday. Non-union shops, it is said, have been keeping open Sunday mornings, while union shops are closed. Nicolaci was until recently a member of the union but was fined, so it is said, by the union because he shaved customers after stipulated working hours.

THE "BUTTERFLIES" SEAT SALE IS NOW OPEN

Reservations May Be Made for Local Talent Theatrical Production to Be Given for New Sanatorium.

The seat sale for "Butterflies," the benefit comedy to be presented for the proposed St. Anthony's sanatorium next Friday night, began today, and the managers are much encouraged by the generous response made by the public to this worthy cause.

The play is being coached by Elwood M. Albright, and has in its cast a number of the people who presented "The Man From Home" for the Y. W. C. A. last fall. It will be a finished production in every sense.

After the play the Old Fellows hall, where it is to be presented, will be cleared and a dance held. The Cavanaugh-Fuhrmyer orchestra will furnish the music for this.

The comedy will be presented tomorrow afternoon, by special request of the management, at the Presbyterian sanatorium for the benefit of the patients. Of course, no scenery will be used, but the production will otherwise be just the same as though put on in a regular theater. This is done to give those who otherwise would not be able to attend the play an opportunity to see it.

BLIZZARD BRINGS DEATH TO TWO

Men Had Been Drinking and Lost Their Lives in Recent Severe Storm in Colorado.

Walsenburg, Colo., Dec. 26.—Two men were found yesterday, frozen to death in the blizzard that has swept this section for ten days. Both had been drinking and had been missing for days. They were Robert Burr and James McIntyre.

McIntyre, aged 40, was found in his lonely cabin, eight miles south of this city. He was seen Monday night on the streets here. He had been drinking and started for his cabin against the protests of his companions. He reached home, but was evidently so weakened by cold that he could not help himself. Pathetic evidence of the old man's attempt to kindle a fire was found by the men who discovered the body yesterday morning.

Burr was discovered by the superintendent of the Rocky Mountain mine, half buried in the snowdrifts. Burr started on a spree two weeks ago and disappeared from his boarding house at the Skinner mine. During the intense cold of last Monday, a search was kept up for him most of the week, but had been abandoned. It was while looking over the snow heaps yesterday morning that the superintendent ran across the body. It is thought that Burr had tried to reach the entrance of the mine.

Both men were without known relatives and will be buried by the county. The storm threatens to tie up traffic about the mines.

SPRITELY ANKER SISTERS AT THE CRYSTAL

Come and Graceful Pair Will Sing Favorite Songs of Old Mexico, Introducing Pretty Spanish Dances.

One of the most picturesque vaudeville acts ever presented here—a sprightly suggestion of Old Mexico on foot—is to feature the new bill which Manager Sherman has prepared for Crystal theater patrons tonight. The sketch, which is prettily mounted and replete with entertaining surprises, will introduce to Albuquerque theatergoers the Anker Sisters, two of the most comely and graceful performers on the variety circuit.

A feature of the act will be the singing in English by Miss Vivian Anker of "La Paloma," the song which, perhaps above all others, is most dear to the hearts of the people of Old Mexico. The Misses Anker will appear in picturesque Mexican costumes and will entertain their act with pretty Spanish dances.

In addition to the vaudeville act there will also be several big reels of unusually interesting pictures.

The Markets

STOCK MARKET IS BEARISH TODAY

Dealings Fell to Nominal Proportions and There Were Only Narrow Moves Except in a Few Instances.

(By Evening Herald A. F. Leased Wire) New York, Dec. 26.—Dealing in stocks fell to nominal proportions during the morning. The market remained in the hands of the professionals, whose bearish sentiment was reflected in the reactionary character of the list. Movements were narrow, except in the case of a few stocks. Lehigh Valley and Great Northern Ore certificates were the marked exceptions. Lehigh Valley gave way slightly until it touched 135 1-4, compared with 136 7-8, the highest price on record, made earlier. Its weakness was ignored by other active stocks which continued downward slightly. Great Northern Ore certificates developed decided weakness, falling six points to 26 1-2. Some short selling was attributed to uncontradicted reports that a change would be made in the presidency of the company. Central railroad of New Jersey opened four points lower at 319 and rebounded to 320.

Bonds were easier. Speculative interest languished during the afternoon and the market showed so little business that some traders quit the floor. Lehigh Valley was sold again after its brief rally. Other stocks became dull but held well when the buying stopped.

The close was easy.
